MAYERLE'S GLASSES

A Warning to the Public

Mr. George Mayerle, the German Expert Optician, has no connection with the so-called "Mayerle & Co.," which has just opened next door to his long established place of business.

When wishing to consult Mr. George Mayerle, look for the full name, GEORGE MAYERLE, also an Eye with a crown on every window, and remember the entrance. 1071

FROM REV. FATHER AUGUSTINE McCLORY

It gives me much pleasure to recommend to the public Mr. George Mayerle of 1071 Market street, San Francisco, strictly as a skillfull and expert optician. My sight began to fail in 1877, twenty-five years ago, and since that time I have been wearing glasses. I consulted a promineut optician in Chicago, Dr. Holmes. At different times since that I have had lenses fitted on in St. Louis, Cleveland, Ohio, and also tried the Fifth-avenue opticians in Pittsburg, who claim to be among the best in their line in the country. I do not hesitate to say that I have met with better and more satisfactory results with MR. GEORGE MAYERLE than with any of the above named, who have much higher pretensions. Respectfully, FATHER AUGUSTINE McCLORY, O. F. M., St. Boniface's Church, 115 Golden Gate ave., S. F.

"THE LEADER"

The Irish people have a national language, handed down to them from the remotest ages; and while no particular section of Irishmen may claim a monopoly of interest therein, the care of that language devolves in a special manner on the Gaelic League: The League's mission is to advance the interests of the tongue of the Gael, to promote and cherish its growth, to foster its reawakened vitality, to strengthen its position at every point, to shield it against attack, to make its voice again heard in the homes, on the hillsides, and throughout the plains and valleys of Erin; to safeguard with jealous and vigilant eye all that it has borne with it down the stream of time, all that it stands for, symbolizes and enshrines; to bring home to the mind and conscience of our people its intimate and vital connection with their traditional nationhood; to vindicate for it its rightful place in our national life and in our people's education —Extract from an article by Douglas Hyde, LL. D., President of the Gaelic League in Ireland.

With the enterprise of a great modern daily, "All Ireland" has spared neither money nor trouble to please its readers. We shall publish a series of views of Ireland which will be superior to any artistic work ever produced on the Coast. These views are famous. The most glorious landmarks of Erin and the most beautiful scenes will be presented. We publish these views through the courtesy of J. S. Hyland & Co., Chicago. They were taken by a special staff of American photographers who spent months in Ireland and took five hundred pictures from which these are selected. Messrs. Hyland & Co. have published them and others in a magnificent work entitled "Ireland in Pictures." "All Ireland" begs to thank Messrs. Hyland & Co. for their courtesy.

W. R. HEARST'S GIFT.

Mr. W. R. Hearst of the "Examiner" has presented the Irish Fair with a beautiful silver dinner set which was placed on exhibition this afternoon near the band stand. It is a very valuable gift and will be raffled for during the Fair.

The convention at St. Peter's Hall last Sunday night adopted a resolution thanking Mr. Hearst for his gift.

The set is mounted in a large oak box highly polished and mounted in gold and bearing a plate beautifully engraved. Inside it is lined with finest silk and satin upon which are laid the various silver pieces. A drawer underneath contains a complete set of silver knives with pearl handles, forks and spoons. Nothing in the whole Fair was more admired, and the visitors marveled at its beauty, which they admired so much. Among the ladies the inevitable fever of excitement over the set was frequently betrayed during the evening.

"Haberdashers!" exclaimed James Burke of Kildare booth, as he passed into the pavilion and saw two mailed warriors clad as knights of old leaning on pikes. "Gallowglasses," corrected Father O'Ryan. "Fenians," declared Commissioner Michael Casey. And all the while the guardians of St. Lawrence Gate stood immovable amid the palms unconsciously lending a striking realism to the scene.

Rev. Father Nugent of St. Brendan's Church was a welcome visitor. His course through the pavilion could be traced by the dollars he dropped.

The City Hall friends of the Irish Fair are invited to the lunch given in the pavilion from 10:45 to 2 o'clock daily. An excellent lunch is spread by the ladies, who will do all in their power to please patrons.

Father Clifford of Mission Dolores spent his time and money with us last evening. The perusal of the Gaelic names on the banner over the booth entrance proved a very fascinating pastime for Father Clifford who is a well-known authority on matters Gaelic.

Have you seen Jim O'Donnell's museum? "It's a thing of beauty and a joy forever"—Freaks of all sorts, illusions beyond description abound there. A mysterious "well" has been dug which will repay a visit—A grand opening will be held tonight. Be sure and attend Jim O'Donnell's museum attached to Donegal booth.

As a "spieler" Henry Powers is certainly a "peach." Assisted by a megaphone, Henry's voice completely drowned every other sound as he eloquently portrayed the "wonders" of the animatoscope attached to the academy booth.

Miss Katheyne Shea of Tipperary looked bewitching in a gown of white organdy over pau-de-soir. (Our French and society editors have passed favorably on this item.)

The South Sea Island exhibit of Tipperary booth is making a hit. It would certainly take the pen of a Chas. Warren Stoddard to do it justice.

It is said that Honorable Michael Casey absent-mindedly wandered into the academy booth last evening thinking he was going to his office in the City Hall on business.

For an up-to-date dinner such as "mother used to make," pay a visit to the refreshment booth (and incidentally a quarter) any day from eleven to two o'clock. We guarantee you will give your boarding house the "go-by," the remaining days of the Fair.

Mr. Harry Pinkham, the world-renowned and incomparable "spieler" has been engaged at an enormous salary to assist at Jim O'Donnell's famous museum. Wait until Harry's vocal organs begin to pipe; there'll be something doing then.

Wexford Booth has the most prized articles in the Fair. They are a pair of genuine Irish pikes that fleshed many a Sassenach at Vinegar Hill.

The pikes were buried for years and were brought from Ireland by Father Rogers of Tomales who kindly presented them to the Fair. Money could not buy them.

The shooting gallery was well patronized last night and no doubt it will prove one of the leading attractions of the up-stairs sections. Many of the patrons seemed to take special delight in "Boering" General Kitchner whose life-size figure stands as solidly as if General Delarey were a thousand miles away. Happy Hooligan's hat was also in line for its share of attention from the sharp-shooters.

King's County Booth has many attractions, not the least of which are the score of young ladies that adorn it.

How "All Ireland" Was Launched.

(A "Seanchus" by the Office-Boy.)

Father Yorke was in repose. It was only one week before the Fair and all arrangements had been made. The buildings had been planned and the thirty-two counties organized.

"Let me see" he pondered, "has anything been forgotten?"

And then the tempter prompted, "How about a paper—an official organ with an organist to grind it?"

Father Yorke was stunned. He knew some of the woes and labors of a manager and editor, and realized how difficult it would be to start a paper in a week.

But suddenly an idea struck him. He rushed to his friend, Father Lyons, and exclaimed, "You must get out a paper every day during the Fair."

Father Lyons was quite cool. He calmly replied "Nonsense! I'm not a Hearst. I know nothing about the business." "Go and see Father O'Ryan about it. He published a Church Calendar some years ago."

Resigning himself to fate, Father Lyons sallied forth to interview Father O'Ryan, who painted a roseate view of the joys of an editor and manager.

He was up against it once himself. He referred Father Lyons to Mr. Tom Prendergast, a lawyer in the Mills Building. "An awfully obliging fellow. Knows the newspaper business like a book. Can write by the mile. Prendy is your man."

Poor consolation for Father Lyons.

The project was broached to Mr. Prendergast, who waxed enthusiastic. "Why!" said he, "'tis great sport—editing. We must organize a staff."

Father Lyons' woes were thickening.

"We don't propose to get out a daily 'Examiner,'" said Father Lyons, "What use have we for a staff?"

"We must also have a business department organized" replied Prendergast, "we've got to do this thing up in style."

Father Lyons submitted himself to fate.

Then a conference was called and the whole plans outlined. Only six days were left. Five thousand subscribers had to be secured and columns of advertising. Articles and sketches had to be procured. And the Fair only six days away.

Father Lyons looked around for an assistant manager. "Behan is my man," he said. He referred to Mr. John E. Behan, assistant clerk of the Board of Supervisors. Father Lyons immediately saw Mr. Behan. "Why!" he said, "I'll get all the boys in the Hall to help. And there are others. We'll attend to that." And Mr. Behan secured the services of the following:

Miss M. A. Dutton, Daniel J. Wren, Fred Ruddock, Joseph X. Strand, Thomas J. Behan, James E. Donahue, Wm. D. Yost, Edw. G. Crawford, Richard Doyle, F. Frank, James B. Waters, M. Hurley, Bertie Behan.

That staff would mail the biggest daily in the land.

Father Lyons again sallied forth. The Carmen's strike was on, and from early morning till late at night he tramped around to interview a representative of each of the Thirty-two counties. They all took a hand in soliciting ads and getting subscribers. The Employer's Association heard of it and as a tribute to Father Yorke applied for preferred space. They were tumbling over one another to get their names in "ALL IRELAND."

Subscriptions were turned in by the hundred. Meanwhile Father Lyons and Mr. Prendergast had secured the services of some of San Francisco's cleverest writers.

"ALL IRELAND" was a success and Father Lyons is now happy.

COUNTY NAMES IN GAELIC.

The following are the names of the thirty-two counties of Ireland, in Irish and in English, as they appear on the banners attached to the different booths.

The Gaelic names of the booths were compiled by Rev. Father Yorke from a careful research of the "Annals of the Four Masters." They are entirely correct and are PUBLISHED EXCLUSIVELY in "All Ireland." This enterprising bit of journalism is a matter of sincere pride to the publishers.

Miss May Hughes, president of Louth Booth was charmingly attired in a light silk gown. Miss Hughes is one of our most active workers and is entitled to great credit for her labors in behalf of the Fair.

The Clare Booth ladies are very proud of the fact that Mayor Schmitz's mother comes from County Clare.

John Kenny of Leitrim Booth says he is leading a most strenuous life since the Fair opened. As a decorator and step ladder artist Mr. Kenny is without an equal.

Sgeulta Na h-Eonaighe

Mrs. Schmitz, wife of Hon. E. E. Schmitz, Mayor of San Francisco, has presented a magnificent diamond sunburst to Dublin Booth. The valuable gift was highly appreciated last evening.

Miss Margurite Winter of the Clare Booth appeared on the floor attired in a Spring organdie waist and gown of black silk.

It is worth the price of admission to see the Acadamy Booth's beautiful decorations last evening. Adjoining is a most beautiful ice cream garden illuminated with Chinese lanterns where the most delicious ice cream at 10 cents a dish is served by a bevy of charming young ladies.

To young men without young lady friends, the Acadamy Booth is the only place for them to visit as they will find here what they are most in need of???

If any one is looking for money to spend at the Irish Fair, let him visit the Academy Booth and play the nickle-in-the-slot machine. At least so says Miss Agnes Kendrick, who was observed walking away from the machine after a half-hour's steady playing with a well-filled satchel.

Miss Mae E. Grace looked her best in a pink organdie trimmed with black applique. Miss Leonora Cavanaugh wore a becoming costume of gray silk, trimmed with Irish point lace, and pearls.

The Waterford Booth has many attractions, among others Irish carrier pigeons, Irish point of exquisite designs and souvenirs of famous Tramore lace. A merry time for all was the motto at this booth.

The Meath Booth, under the management of Mrs. Mulvey and a corps of charming young ladies has many unique surprises in store for its visitors. Messrs. Cutler and Coret entertained with fine musical duets on piano and violin.

The Kilkenny Booth, presided over by Mrs. Thomas Curran, presented a very attractive appearance and was zealously guarded by the famous dog Kilkenny owned by J. Grace.

A land office business seems to be going on in the shooting gallery, judging from the sounds of musketry which constantly emanate from that section of the pavilion.

The Clan-na-Gaels in charge of the Mayo Booth take pleasure in announcing that they will have a supply of the Cork, Galway, Waterford, Dublin and Mayo papers in their booth. People from these counties are invited to digest the mental gruel in these very remarkable papers. Last night we mentioned that Mayo Booth had the prettiest colleens. We can now also boast of having the handsomest ladeensako.

If you don't believe us, just take a peep at Willie Judge, if you are fortunate enough to see him, when by accident he happens to get away from his many charming lady admirers that act as his body guard.

One of the attractive features of the Fair is the Cross Roads Dancing School. There can be seen all the old Irish dances, jige, hornpipe, Irish quadrille, eight hand, and four hand reels. Miss B. Allen and Miss P. Hickman are special attractions.

Monday evening the members of the Gaelic League will attend in a body. This school is in charge of O'Connor and Kelleher and members of the Gaelic League.

Limerick, the city of the violated treaty, was well represented by many good citizens. The ladies were all dressed in green and white costumes. The Limerick booth was tastefully decorated by N. Ieasel the celebrated decorator of the Buffalo Exposition. The Treaty stone looked quite natural and was in a very prominent position in the center of the booth. The visitors to the Limerick Booth were Rev. Father Casey, James O' Brien, George Ryan, D. Riordan. Misses McCarthy and Felvey looked charming in evening dress, pink silk and lace.

A very handsome Irish silk flag donated by G. Barron, the only one in California who can turn out such flags, is one of the attractions of Limerick Booth. Irish societies will do well to take some fifty cent chances on this flag. Anyone wishing to be the owner of such a handsome flag will find the tickets on sale at Limerick Booth. The president, Mrs. Mc Cartney looked well in black grenadine over green silk. All the other ladies were dressed in green and white.

Roscommon Booth had a very lively evening. The young ladies are working with a will. The Misses Kenney, Daily, Fitzgerald and Flynn looked charming in evening dress. Mrs. Maginniss, the president, is very much pleased with the evening's returns.

The assistants at the Map of Ireland are Misses M. Harney, R. Cleary, E. Cleary, A. Janda, E. Lyman, N. Franklin, S. Macomber, Mrs. Kilcoyne, Mrs. J. V. Sullivan, Mr. J. Needham, Mr. J. Sullivan, Mr. George Cleary.

Do not overlook the Academy Booth, as the young ladies there are in a position to overlook you, being located in the gallery.

Father Brady was an interesting and amusing figure in his efforts in decorating the Long Ford Booth.

James O'Donnel was walking around last evening with a Charley Ross expression.

Professor Holmes' class of physical culture gave a very creditable exhibition last evening under the auspices of the Wexford and Tipperary Booth.

Miss Flynn of the Clare Booth is one of the most energetic workers for the Fair. Her stately figure attracted much attention and no one can resist that charming Irish smile of hers.

Miss Mollie Riley is another tireless and cheerful worker who has done much towards the success of the different entertainments given by the booth.

Have you noticed the Fair's messenger boys? Notice their lightning speed? Twentieth century methods have been adopted by these lads and they are taking as active an interest in our affairs as the most energetic of their elders.

The County Cavan Booth has a corps of workers who are doing everything in their power to make their booth a success.

The principle attraction in the booth is an oil painting of the Rev. Father Yorke. Miss Annie Cassells is one of the most indefatigable workers in this booth. From the beginning she has been most enthusiastic and her ability to dispose of tickets is wonderful.

The ladies of the Dublin Booth were busy taking chances. Mrs. D. Keefe looked charming in lavender grenadine, Mrs. C. Riley was attired in Nile green silk trimmed in queen lace.

The Misses O'Reilly looked in vain for the men last night in Cork Booth.

Hon. Peter J. Curtis walked quite lame last evening.

Mrs. Burns is a master hand in managing Wheels of Fortune.

Blarney Stone was fervently embraced by scores of young ladies.

Monaghan Booth is progressing rapidly under the careful supervision of the president, Mr. Ed. O'Rourke and the Secretary, Miss Mary Hughes. They expect to be among the top-notchers at the close of the Fair. Among the attractions is a contest for the most popular blacksmith, the prize being an anvil and hammer. A quarter of a ton of coal will be raffled off every night. The success of the booth is due largely to the good work of the Misses Winters, the Misses Brown and Miss Kelly.

Galway Booth desires to thank their numerous friends who kept several young ladies of the booth busy last evening disposing of chances on various articles. The race horse is in charge of Mrs. Fennell and Miss Annie Morrissey are bringing in a deluge of silver. Miss M. Ward and Miss Moroney are doing an excellent business among their large circle of friends.

The Museum will positively open this evening with all the wonders of the age. Admission 10 cents.

The Tipperary entertained their friends last evening with a literary and musical program. The following well known talent appearing: William Healy, Messrs. Kelly and Marlow, Miss Rose McDonald, Miss Edna Walsh.

Mrs. Kiely of the Dublin Booth sustained the reputation of the most stylish city of Ireland. She looked beautiful in blue organdie, her hair, dressed a la pompadour, was held in place by a pink ribbon ornamented by a magnificent Parisian knot.

The Rev. T. M. Tubman writes from Nevada wishing success to the "Great Irish Fair."

Lunch will be served every day from 11 to 2 and in the evening. Coffee and sandwiches, ice cream and cake are the chief refreshments.

Mrs. Keenan looked charming in blue and black satin. Blue silk harmonized admirably with the fair complexion of Miss McConnell.

Westmeath Booth is not behind in its efforts to maintain its splendid record. A handsome donation received last evening was a beautiful piece of Battenburg, the gift of M. P. Morin, made by Miss Generie Meaten.

Donegal Booth being situate near the Band Stand was visited by all the people in the Fair and who were very much impressed at the grandeur of this booth.

"The Donegal was the very best of all" seemed to be the popular expression.

The people of this comfortable booth are most sociable and will gladly welcome all who wish to call on them.

They will not knock hats off in trying to get chances or sell tickets. They allow their visitors rest of person and pocket. They trust to the generosity of their callers.

To the rear of the booth there is an immense space set apart for a most interesting and amusing side show which will contain freaks from all parts of the world.

Come and see. It is wonderful. You can imagine what it must be when its managers are M. J. C. O'Donnell, Harry Pinkham, Ernest Brainard, William Ogilvie, Geo. Thomas and others.

William E. Broderson will have charge and manage all of the illusions and freaks. His name in connection with the same is a guarantee that it will be a glorious success. Admission fee will be only 10 cents.

Louth County, the smallest in Ireland, represents an Irish cavern, and is very artistically decorated. One of the features of the decorations are the American and Irish flags and a model of the Irish jaunting car Father Yorke rode on when he last visited Ireland and presented by P. Flanigan.

To Correspondents.—Please write on one side of your paper only and save wear and tear on the patience, good nature and good will of the Editorial staff and the peace of mind of the office boy.

"We never follow, always lead," say the members of the Tyrone Booth. The Wicklow Booth continues to be the center of attraction. Last night it was found to be too small for the number of visitors.

Fr. O'Ryan paid a visit to the booth early in the evening.

Mrs Gallagher, Mrs Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Byrne were among the visitors who arrived later.

The president, Mrs. Saunders wore black lace and chiffon. Miss Kyne was attired in black and white organdie.

Miss Redmond's form appeared to great advantage in white and red organdie.

Mrs. Murphy, Miss A. Devlin, Mrs. Supple and Miss Guilfoy have been working energetically all day and will have one of the most attractive booths in the fair.

A beautiful doll house adorns the Wicklow Booth. The ladies in charge will give an "At Home" next Monday.

The ladies of the Carlow Booth will be ready to cater to the wants of Fair sight seers this evening. The best

The Post's article on the Irish Fair are attracting favorable comment. Last evening's issue with its photograph of the map of Ireland made a decided hit.

Longford Booth is prettily decorated with pink and green. Mrs Morris is much pleased with the proceeds so far. Mocha coffee will be served.

A Warning to the Public

Mr. George Mayerle, the German Expert Optician, has no connection with the so-called "Mayerle & Co.," which has just opened next door to his long established place of business.

When wishing to consult Mr. George Mayerle, look for the full name, GEORGE MAYERLE, also an Eye with a crown on every window, and remember the entrance. 1071

FROM REV. FATHER AUGUSTINE McCLORY

It gives me much pleasure to recommend to the public Mr. George Mayerle of 1071 Market street, San Francisco, strictly as a skillfull and expert optician. My sight began to fail in 1877, twenty-five years ago, and since that time I have been wearing glasses. I consulted a prominent optician in Chicago, Dr. Holmes. At different times since that I have had lenses fitted on in St. Louis, Cleveland, Ohio, and also tried the Fifth-avenue opticians in Pittsburg, who claim to be among the best in their line in the country. I do not hesitate to say that I have met with better and more satisfactory results with MR. GEORGE MAYERLE than with any of the above named, who have much higher pretensions. Respectfully, FATHER AUGUSTINE McCLORY, O. F. M., St. Boniface's Church, 115 Golden Gate ave., S. F.

BEWARE OF INJURIOUS IMITATIONS...

Two Drops of George Mayerle's German Eyewater gives instant relief for weak or inflamed eyes. The Genuine can be had only of Geo. Mayerle, German Expert Optician, 1071 Market street, San Francisco.

"THE LEADER"

Only One Dollar a Year

The Irish people have a national language, handed down to them from the remotest ages; and while no particular section of Irishmen may claim a monopoly of interest therein, the care of that language devolves in a special manner on the Gaelic League: The League's mission is to advance the interests of the tongue of the Gael, to promote and cherish its growth, to foster its reawakened vitality, to strengthen its position at every point, to shield it against attack, to make its voice again heard in the homes, on the hillsides, and throughout the plains and valleys of Erin; to safeguard with jealous and vigilant eye all that it has borne with it down the stream of time, all that it stands for, symbolizes and enshrines; to bring home to the mind and conscience of our people its intimate and vital connection with their traditional nationhood; to vindicate for it its rightful place in our national life and in our people's education —Extract from an article by Douglas Hyde, LL. D., President of the Gaelic League in Ireland.
